Welcome to the February 2006 edition of the Radio HF Internet Newsletter, I would like to welcome our new subscribers joining us this month. As usual, we have a selection of links to web sites which I hope you will find informative and entertaining.

It's going to be a pretty exciting Sunday coming up for me this week. My Seattle Seahawks are appearing in their first ever Super Bowl game, facing off against the Pittsburgh Steelers. Every year since 1987 four of my friends and I have got together for an annual Super Bowl party. This year will obviously be a bigger and better party, and even better if Seattle pulls off the win. I'm certainly looking forward to it.

The annual Winter SWL Festival, the 19th annual edition, will also be coming up on the 3rd and 4th of March in Kulpsville, Pennsylvania. I had to break my streak of 16 consecutive years attending the event last year due to illness, having previously only missed the very first Winterfest. I'm looking forward to getting back to meet up with all my friends again.

Our Monthly Special Zone for February includes sites dealing with the Super Bowl, the upcoming Winter Olympic Games and St. Valentine's Day.

THE MONTHLY SURVEY

LAST MONTH'S SURVEY

Last month's question really seemed to hit home with a lot of people. 37 responses were received to the following question:

Do you presently own a satellite radio receiver? If yes, which system are you subscribed to? If you do not have a satellite radio receiver, do you intend to purchase one in the future?

12 people indicated that they presently own a satellite radio receiver. Of those, they were split evenly between Sirius and XM.

25 people indicated they did not have a satellite receiver of which only 4 stated that they plan to purchase one in the near future. The balance has no interest at this time in satellite radio.

With respect to the supplementary question regarding the Super Bowl, only 6 people responded with two votes each for Indianapolis and Pittsburgh; one vote each for Seattle and Washington.

THIS MONTH'S SURVEY

This month we'll stay with radio as a theme. Given that the majority of our subscribers are shortwave listeners, DXers, ham operators, etc. we'll focus on the equipment that you use.

Which brand and model, of all the radios you may own, would you consider to be your single favourite piece of equipment?

Please send your response, by e-mail, to hfnewsletter@...

THE COMMENTS ZONE

John T. Wagner, Pickerington, Ohio: Thank you for yet another great news letter. I know you work very hard producing it yet get little response to your surveys. I am guilty of that myself, even though I look forward to your newsletter. I think a lot of subscribers are just like me. We intend to send in a response but under the pressures of modern, hurry up life, tend to forget all about it until it is too late. I'll try to respond more.

William Ellis, St. Zotique, Quebec: I would like to make a suggestion to contributor Donald Yeatman for his choice of games (re: The Maze in the December 2005 edition). Games like the maze can be dangerous to unsuspecting folks like me (I.E.) serious heart condition & very nervous. I don't usually play internet games, but this one looked like fun `til I came to the part where some monster screamed at me from the screen. The reaction was instant; a karate punch straight forward at my new flat screen monitor & came to within an inch of destroying it, followed by heart palpitations followed by nitro spray. This is not a complaint, just something to reflect upon.

Ken Chattenton, Cleveland, United Kingdom: I would like to thank you for your time and devotion to the newsletter you provide us with each month of the year. I for one really enjoy its arrival in my 'in-box'. Thank You.

Roger Odorizzi, Manson, Washington: I really enjoy the newsletter and appreciate the work you do a big hearty thanks.

CyberJournalist.net is a news and resource site that focuses on how the Internet, convergence and new technologies are changing the media. The site offers tips, news and commentary about online journalism, citizen's media, digital storytelling, converged news operations and using the Internet as a reporting tool. Cyber Journalist highlights examples of online journalism with the aim of recognizing those who do great work and helping those who don't. The site also explores how technology is affecting journalism, with an emphasis on how the Internet can help all journalists better do their jobs.

CONNECT 2 CANADA

http://www.connect2canada.com

VIA Sheldon Harvey, Greenfield Park, Quebec

On July 1, 2005 (now former) Canadian Ambassador to the U.S. Frank McKenna launched Connect2Canada.com, a virtual network for Canadians and friends of Canada who live in the United States. Since that announcement, thousands have signed up to receive information on subjects as diverse as our global troop deployments, updates on BSE, Canadian events in the US, and the latest on our efforts to help out the victims of Hurricane Katrina. Many Canadians have told us how proud they are to be a Canadian in the U.S. Many Americans with links to Canada have also signed up to be a part of this network. They are emblematic of the proud and deep history between the people of Canada and the United States.
Connect2Canada is a way to exchange news and ideas, and find out what is happening in the U.S. related to Canada. Members of the network can receive email notices on a range of topics of interest to them and can share their views with others. As the network grows, it will serve as a knowledge base and a ready resource for facts on the major issues in the United States and Canada today.

THE NATIONAL SECURITY ARCHIVE

MARINE AMATEUR RADIO -- Fast, Clear, Affordable Communications ship-to-ship or ship-to-shore.

When you're miles offshore, and the nearest vessel is somewhere over the horizon, you need a fast, reliable, easy-to-operate communication system. Marine Amateur Radio provides all the information you need to select, install, and operate an inexpensive and completely dependable ham radio system on any boat, power or sail.
Ham radio gives you the advantages of a single-sideband system at a fraction of the cost. This well-illustrated guide succinctly explains how to use your radio for voice or Morse code communications and how to check and send e-mail, link up with onshore signal repeaters to extend your range, and even make personal phone calls. The book is designed to open flat for easy use onboard.

802.11 WIRELESS NETWORKS: THE DEFINITIVE GUIDE

-- by Matthew S. Gast
Creating and administering wireless networks.

As we all know by now, wireless networks offer many advantages over fixed (or wired) networks. Foremost on that list is mobility, since going wireless frees you from the tether of an Ethernet cable at a desk. But that's just the tip of the cable-free iceberg. Wireless networks are also more flexible, faster and easier for you to use, and more affordable to deploy and maintain.
The de facto standard for wireless networking is the 802.11 protocol, which includes Wi-Fi (the wireless standard known as 802.11b) and its faster cousin, 802.11g. With easy-to-install 802.11 network hardware available everywhere you turn, the choice seems simple, and many people dive into wireless computing with less thought and planning than they'd give to a wired network. But it's wise to be familiar with both the capabilities and risks associated with the 802.11 protocols. And 802.11 Wireless Networks: The Definitive Guide, 2nd Edition is the perfect place to start.
This updated edition covers everything you'll ever need to know about wireless technology. Designed with the system administrator or serious home user in mind, it's a no-nonsense guide for setting up 802.11 on Windows and Linux. 654 pages, 2nd edition, © 2005, published by O'Reilly & Associates, Inc.
